

2027 Student Photography Institute

A program for high school students led by Miami-based photographer Tony Chirinos, the Photography Institute includes four weekend classes (Fridays and Saturdays) during the academic year and a two-week session of classes in the summer. The program gives students broad experiences in various areas of photography: the camera, seeing, lighting, composing, digital technology and portfolio preparation. Students concentrate on technical and formal excellence in their work as developing photographers and have their work presented in an exhibition in The Baker Museum. Students may participate in either the full program or only the 10-day summer workshop.
